KANAB.

KANAB, UTAH, Dec. 26, 1899.

EDITOR TIMES:

More snow would be welcome; it is badly needed to make traveling good. The air yesterday was more like the air of balmy spring than of merry Christmas.

Elders Gibbons and Pace visited the Mutuals Tuesday. Both associations are doing good work.

Mrs. Ursula Smith slipped and fell on the ice in front of the mill yesterday; jarring and bruising herself badly.

On Thursday of this week Miss Francis Williams and Sherman Talbot will be united in wedlock by Dr. Atwood, at the home of the bride's parents. We tender congratulations.

Miss Ella Pack is home from Salt Lake for the holidays. The seven students Kanab furnishes the B. Y. Academy at Provo are also spending the holidays among friends and relatives.

The little ones met in the hall yesterday and danced away the hours from one to four in a merry fashion. Dr. Atwood did all in his power to make it a time of enjoyment, and succeeded to the satisfaction of all.

The Electionary Recital given by Prof. Smart's pupils Friday evening was a new affair, and redounded credit on both teachers and scholars. The prize was carried off by Miss Emma Lamb and Little Fern Williams.

On Sunday evening the subject of the principal discourses of the religious services was the birth of Christ; handled in an able manner by James Wolskelhulme, George Laney, Mosher and Lambert Pack also addressed the meeting.

Mrs. Emma Hoyt of Marion, slipped on the ice in front of her residence yesterday morning, sustaining severe injuries from the effects of which she is suffering greatly, being unable to move a limb; some injury to the spine is feared.

What is the matter with our barber? This time it was a sheriff of Salt Lake who has swooped down and carried off the unfortunate Lovelace. The most charitable advised him to think there must be something shady about the gentleman.

Kanab has it that the postoffice is to be moved, and that in a short time Miss Annie Pack will write P. M. after her name. Many will regret the removal of the present incumbent, Gen. C. Pack, for he has been an efficient, faithful and honest public servant for many years. But such are the changes of administration. We wish Miss Annie all success in her new undertaking.

The ball last evening was liberally patronized and gaily regaled till a late hour. Henry Walker, the "pioneer musician" at this locality, furnished the music and put life into the light feet of the dancers. This evening the young people who have been under the tutelage of M. M. Smart for some weeks, will present the drama, "Out in the Streets," for the entertainment of the public. Wednesday night another ball at Carpenter's, for which West's band will furnish the music; also another Friday evening for which the Olson band of Provo has been engaged, make up the list of public amusements for this week.

The disposition of children largely depends upon health. If they are troubled with worms, they will be irritable, cross, feverish, and perhaps seriously sick. WHITE'S CREAM VEMIFUGE is a worm expeller and tonic to make them healthy and cheerful. Price 25 cents. John Boyden & Son.

Elijah Horton has moved to Salt Lake City.

James White came in from the desert last Saturday.

W. W. Horton went to Rockport on a visit on the 26th.

Nels Peterson has bought a new range cooking stove, the wife's comfort.

Miss Edith Stevens and Len Frasier came home last Saturday from the University to spend Christmas.

David White, who has been attending the business college at Salt Lake, is spending his holidays at home.

In a neighboring town it is reported that a man has two saw mills, a stove, a ranch, goes peddling two days a week, and is now practicing law.

Christmas passed off very quietly in this place. The merchant did not bring over enough fire water to go the rounds, consequently some did not load up.

There is a man in this town that carries a bottle filled with white wine. He was at the theatre at Kanab flourishing it around to the detriment of his companions.

Rene Rosenqvist met with a very painful accident on the 25th inst. He hitched his horse in front of T. W. Fraser's team to help him up a hill. When the chain was loosened and he was driving away they did not take it off the sled. The hook caught on the bench and being fast at the other end, three sleds were so fast that Mr. Rosenqvist was thrown out striking on the back of his head making him unconscious for some time.

James Evans and N. B. Snapp will attend the installation of the A. F. & A. M. at Park City.

Justice Merchant on Tuesday fined two citizens in the sum of $100 each for disturbing the peace on Christmas day.

Christmas was observed here by having family gatherings, a dance in the afternoon for the children and one in the evening for adults.

Just at the close of the dance on Christmas afternoon one of our citizens made some flimsy remarks to a young lady; the result is that he got the worst beating he ever had and is now laid up in repairs.

The criminal case of the State vs. Joshua W. Neal, charged with having carnal knowledge with a female under the age of consent, was heard before Justice of the Peace A. R. Marchant on Tuesday, and the defendant Neal was bound over to the action of the District Court in the sum of $400; County Attorney Callie prosecuting the case and J. A. Marchant defending.

A merry party got up a surprise on Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miles on Wednesday evening of this week. The evening was spent in singing, social games and social chat. The Christmas exercises given by our district school, under the management of Teachers Carl Allison and Miss V. Cayley, were rendered in a pleasing and creditable manner Saturday evening to a crowded house. The union and harmony in the singing and promptness of each exercise, showed good training and speaks well for our teachers. The question was asked, "How many children are taking part?" PRESS BULLETIN.

The Composition and Feeding Value of Frozen Wheat.

This bulletin is prepared in answer to the many inquiries that have recently been made concerning the feeding value of frozen wheat.

In order to learn the composition of such wheat, as compared with that fully ripened, two samples were submitted to the station chemist for analysis, one representing a good quality of frozen wheat, with a large portion of the kernels only slightly shrunk, and a few fully matured, the other representing a lower grade with no mature kernels, and fully two-thirds shrunk to about half size.

The better grade of frozen wheat has 2.6 pounds less of dry matter in 100 pounds than that fully matured, and the poorer grade has about one pound more; neither grade of frozen wheat contains as high a per cent. of protein, or muscle-making material, as does the milling wheat, but both of them have a higher per cent. of fat, an equally valuable food constituent, and almost as large an amount of carbo-hydrates, which include such nutrients as sugar, starch and gum. There is an extra quantity of crude fibre in both samples of the frozen wheat, which indicates a little lower per cent. of digestibility than for milling wheat.

From the standpoint of composition, taken as a whole, the frozen wheat ranks little inferior for stock feeding to that fully ripened.

The composition of both kinds of screenings shows a high feeding value, though the large per cent. of crude fibre indicates that they are less digestible than any of the wheats.

On account of the numerous fine seeds the first screenings contain, they will give better results fed to sheep than to cattle and pigs. While both kinds of screenings contain a much lower per cent. of carbo-hydrates than the wheat, this storage is largely made up for in their extra quality of fat.

In Manitoba and other portions of Canada, where there are frequently large quantities of frozen wheat, excellent results have been obtained in stock feeding.

When large lots, averaging 160 pounds in weight at the beginning of the experiment, and 275 pounds at the close, were fed frozen wheat, 524 pounds were required for 100 pounds increase in live weight, while at the same time, with a like lot of large white 322 pounds of mixed grain, consisting of equal parts by weight of No. 1 wheat, barley and peas, were required for the same increase in live weight.

In a second test, feeding pigs that averaged 21 pounds each until they reached an average weight of 135 pounds each, 106 pounds increase in live weight were obtained from 288 pounds of frozen wheat. The pork was considered excellent, and superior to that of hogs fed on peas alone.

In both trials the frozen wheat was ground and mixed for twelve hours before feeding. One hundred pounds of frozen wheat was found equal to 791 pounds of clean mill in increasing the live weight of pigs.

When frozen wheat was fed to two-year-old steers in comparison with mixed meal (made up of equal parts, by weight, of all oats, peas and barley) more savings consisting in the savings, the average daily gain was 1.74 pounds for the wheat, and 1.61 pounds for the mixed meal, but at market prices of the feeding stuffs, the frozen wheat grains were made at $2.12 less cost per hundred weight. Steers fed frozen wheat with corn ensilage made 15 per cent. higher daily gains than those fed the mixed meal with hay and roots and at a cost per hundred weight less than one-half as great.

The quality of beef from steers fed on frozen wheat was pronounced to be particularly excellent by the butchers, and by the members of eight different households who examined it critically when served as roast beef.

The daily ration of the mixed meal and of the frozen wheat was in each instance six pounds per head. When both were fed in connection with corn ensilage it required 309 pounds of the mixed meal for each 100 pounds gain, and 243 of the frozen wheat.

While the feeding trials reported give no direct comparison of frozen wheat with the fully matured, still the results show it to be practically equal to a mixture of wheat, oats and barley for long feeding and to stand very high as a concentrated food for fattening cattle.—Luther Foster, at Agricultural Experiment Station, Logan.
